

ILCLI OPEN SEMINAR

Tuesday, November 22nd, 2016
15:30-17:30

Carlos Santamaria Zentroa
Room 1

---

Why Moral Ignorance does Not Excuse

NOMY ARPALY

(Brown University, USA)

---

Some hold that a person is not at fault for doing something wrong if she honestly thinks that what she is doing is right. I would like to argue that thinking that what you are doing is right is no excuse and that caring about doing the right thing, if interpreted purely de dicto, is not particularly valuable.

(Attendance is free, but please email kepa.korta@ehu.eus with your name and affiliation)