Part B. Free description of CV

My name is Silvia da Costa and I have a PhD in Psychology from the University of the Basque Country, since 2018. I also hold a master's degree from the same university (see the section of Academic Formation). Previously, I studied a degree in Educational Psychology at the Faculty of Educational Sciences (today EFA, UPV/EHU) and Teaching (specialising in primary education) in Uruguay (equivalent to the Spanish degree). I have been living in the north of Spain for 17 years (2003). I was responsible for the commercial department of the Merchant Federation of Guipuzkoa, where I acquired experience with SMEs. Later, I had access to the PhD Program in psychology: Individual, Group, Organization and Culture through the Research Master of the same name and during the years 2013-2018 I was a pre-doctorate researcher in the Faculty of Psychology, Department of Social Psychology and Behavioural Sciences Methodology. I obtained the International Doctorate (cum laude) in 2018 and my thesis (<https://addi.ehu.es/handle/10810/29428>) was proposed for extraordinary doctor award. The topic of the doctoral thesis is framed in the lines of research of the Group Culture, Cognition and Emotion (GCCE) [Specifically: Higher education, identity and organizational culture (610902, 580107, 610401); advanced methodologies in social psychology (6114, 610701); Knowledge transfer University / Society]. As member of GCCE since July 2012, I participated in its many activities, like (assessment and theoretical development project, development of training materials) seminars and communications. I have also been a collaborative-teacher. Specifically, I have participated over two years in courses of the Department of Personality, Evaluation and Psychological Treatment (topic: health psychology, social psychological aspects). During 2019-2020 I was a teacher in the Department of Social Psychology (topics: social psychology, degree in criminology (first course), in the Classroom of experience (training courses for seniors, over 60), topic: psychology (first course). I also taught in the Faculty of Labour Relations and Social Work (topic: direction and management of personnel (second course). As a member of GCCE I participated in six contracts with public and private entities (see section contracts) and three funded research projects (Basque Government, MICINN and Training and Research Units UPV/EHU). Regarding publications or scientific-technical documents between 2014 and 2020, I published 23 articles in peer-reviewed journals (a large majority indexed in JCR, SJR, and some ones in Scielo or Latindex). I have been the author or co-author of sixteen articles submitted for publication (co-author) and of eight manuscripts (main author) during 2020 (see the articles under review and handwritter in section merits). I have also participated in twelve book chapters; eight as first author and five accepted for publication. In addition, during 2014-2021 I have participated in 74 communications accepted at national and international conferences; non-EU international; UE international; EU; autonomic; regional and Latin America. I was a speaker at a non-eu international symposium, and a national symposium. Specifically, I have participated in ten national, regional or autonomic congresses, six international, two European Union, eight International EU and seven International non-EU, to a large extent as a lead author (oral communication, posters, round table symposium). I was a speaker in an international symposium (SBPOT, Brazil 2016) and a national symposium (psicología y rrhh, Madrid, 2016) as well as table coordinator at a Congress during 2019 (Vitoria/Gazteiz), among others. In 2020, 21 conference presentations were accepted and those that were not cancelled or moved to 2021 (due to the Sar-CoV-2 or CoVid-19 situation) were held online. It should be noted that during 2015 and 2017, I coordinated the project Profile of Emotional Competences (PEC) for Latin America. This is relevant because it highlights the high collaboration between the GCCE (and its members) and colleagues (and their universities and/or research groups) from Latin American countries, among others in the world. Working together benefited all parties involved in the different projects. During the summers of 2014 and 2015, as a part of the doctoral thesis, I performed field research in Uruguay, Chile and Argentina, where I also conducted a workshop and a course for postgraduates. Also, I participated in an internal seminar and I gave a lecture. As a member of the research group, I contributed to reinforce contact and collaboration between research lines, as well as to support intra and inter-University coordination (Seven agreements were reached between the UPV/EHU and various Latin American universities and a non-profit association in the Basque Country to carry out the studies of the doctoral thesis). During 2016, I made three months and a half of a pre doctorate stay at the London School of Economics. Among other actions, I acquired the accreditation in Belbin work team methodology during that year. Doctoral dissertation was finished the first semester of 2018 and the defense was carried in September 2018. Subsequently, I applied for accreditation from ANECA, obtaining permission to be hired as an assistant doctor, hired doctor and private university lecturer (15 March 2019). Between the years 2019 and 2020, I have postulate in public calls in Spanish universities for cover teaching positions related to my accreditation. I applied for 34 positions with different profiles, including Social and Organizational Psychology. I was also a candidate for the Juan de la Cierva Contract Aid - Training 2019, with the University of Granada. Finally I applied to the 2018 call for complements (BOPV 28/10/2019) at our University, obtaining the favourable report for the C1 section. During the years 2014 and 2020, I have accumulated 12.35 teaching credits in degree courses at the UPV/EHU and 12 credits in postgraduate training in Latin America. Between 2015 and 2020, I have assessed 16 articles from 11 peer-reviewed journals, 6 WOS, 1 Q1, 3 Scielo, 3 Scopus and the rest CrossRef and Dialnet (see at the botton). At the time of submission of this CV, I have agreed to review one article from the Happiness Journal of Psychology (Q2) and another from the International Journal of Technology Management (IJTM, Q4). During 2019, I was awarded a scholarship for Emerging Researchers, which allowed me to attend the 10th International Congress on Religion and Spirituality in Society in Vancouver, Canada. https://cgscholar.com/community/community\_profiles/religion-and-spirituality-in-society/community\_updates/118277 as part of the Staff. Unfortunately, the congress had to be online because of the theme of COVID-19, but I hope to take up this task again at the next congress which will be in 2021 in Cordoba, Spain. Other merits are being carried out during the period 2019-2020, among other courses, more than 200 hours of training on gender, given online by the Women's Institute for Equal Opportunities, the Ministry of the Presidency, relations with the courts and Equality, the UPV/EHU and the University of La Laguna, Spain. During 2020, the international certification in Advanced Creative Problem Solving online will also be completed. In this academic year 2020-2021 it is expected to complete the degree in Psychology (2 optional, practicum and TFG), which has been a requirement for public calls to be able to apply for several positions, even having the doctorate. I also hope to complete Master's in Project Management (only the TFM remains) during 2020-2021. At research level, the planning marks the continuation of the project: Impact of the Application of Two Programs [creativity and gender perspective] in the Police and Military Organizational Culture in Latin America: the Role of Social Representations and Leadership. The candidate is applying, not only taking into account Argentina's military population but also the police sample from Peru, Argentina and Colombia that have been interested in participating. This is a collaborative project between experts from Spanish universities (UPV/EHU, Burgos), Argentina (UNDEF-UBA-UTN), Peru (Catholic University of Peru), Colombia (Research Group) and the United Kingdom (LSE) which is expected to bring individual and group benefits as well as local, national and international benefits. Finally, in 2020, I am collaborating with the team of external experts in the BBK Project "Let's make it count". I will also contribute with the Association of Property Administrators and GCCE Group (UPV/EHU) on the project "Study of the decision-making process and the role of the property administrator in co-owners' meetings and the management of residential buildings" Project that has been submitted for funding to the Eraikal 2020 grant from the Basque Government). These collaborations are not an impediment for the candidate to apply for and develop the specialisation of Dr. at the UPV/EHU.
