ZURE BILA GABILTZA

If you already have a good level of English and would like to improve those aspects of oral and written English that are specific to the language used in research environments, this may be the course for you. You will learn to improve the structure and style of your abstracts, your research papers, oral presentations as well as your communications with the scientific community in general. All this requires some formal and stylistic conventions that are often overlooked in more general English courses. The course is very practical and hands-on. Come and join us!

IRTEERA PROFESIONALAK

If you are in your final year and are interested in a career in research, if you would like to do a Masters or a PhD course abroad, or if you are already a researcher but would like to improve your skills to write and talk confidently about your subject, this course may help you.
