

III BILBAO EUROPEAN ENCOUNTERS

THE CHALLENGES OF THE EUROPEAN INTEGRATION

After the success both in terms of contents and participation of the two previous editions of the European Encounters which were mainly academically focused, Globernance makes a proposal to extend to the general public the process of reflection about the challenges the European integration is facing these days.

In 2013 internationally renowned academics were gathered at the Bizkaia Aretoa at the Basque Country University, with the aim to reflect on Europe after the Euro crisis: justice, legitimacy, and democracy. In 2015 took place the second edition, held at Torre Iberdrola. The main aim was to think about which aspects should be taken into account to create a new narrative for a new Europe.

The first edition was focused on the elaboration of a diagnosis for one of the most complex crisis that Europe has suffered until date. Paradoxically, the moment in history in which there was more European integration converged with the strongest crisis in the history of the European integration. In the second edition, in parallel with the beginning of the crisis recovery, the reflection evolved along the lines of which features should be highlighted in order to rebuild a stronger integration among European countries. The aim was to avoid the repetition of another political, economic, social, and cultural crisis such as the last one suffered in Europe.

In both cases, the Bilbao European Encounters counted with the collaboration of three key institutions regarding (but not limited to) the topic of the European integration: the Programme of Global Governance from the European University Institute in Florence, the Institute of Politics and Public Goods at the Spanish National Research Council, and in the second edition, the European Institute of the London School of Economics. Besides, the engagement of private and public institutions allowed us to guarantee the needed infrastructure to organize such an ambitious event, as well as its dissemination among the stakeholders.

However, we strongly believe that citizens should also take part and have a say in these debates, which requires a new target-shape format of the event. The new edition of the Bilbao European Encounters will bring the debate to the general public to expand the scope of the deliberation. In line with the successful experience of the European Dialogues frequently held at the San Telmo Museum, in San Sebastián, and organized as well by Globernance, the brand new edition of the European Encounters aims both at following the path of the previous editions and defining the grounds for a promising fourth edition. This fourth edition will have an institutional and academic character, besides, it will be held in 2017.

Now, in this year's edition, we aim at tackling the main three challenges identified as the key ones for what might become a successful European integration. This edition will count with the participation of the keynote speakers, and moderations presented as follows.
