Murphy's Law

Are you the type of person who feels like…

Anything that can go wrong, will go wrong, at the worst possible time, all of the time, without fail, when you least expect it?

If that sounds like you, then you are living under the influence of Murphy's Law.

Welcome to the aggravating world of Murphy's Law. It is a very optimistic law, stating if anything can go wrong, it will. If it can't go wrong, it will go wrong anyway. This sad truth is the basic premise of Murphy's Law.

Another allegedly correct and original reading of Murphy's Law is that if there are two or more ways to do something, and one of those ways can result in a catastrophe, then someone will do it. But the statement that best expresses the explosive nature of Murphy's Law is undoubtedly you will inevitably make the wrong choice whatever you decide.

And it may just be right. This isn't because of some mysterious power the law possesses. In reality, it's us who give Murphy's Law relevance. When life goes well, little is made of it. After all, we expect that things should work out in our favour. But when things go badly, we look for reasons.

It’s food for thought but there is no evidence to support Murphy's Law itself - it's all down to perception.

The law captures our imagination. There are countless examples in today's culture. It is generally accepted, for example, that bread will always land buttered-side down when dropped, that there will be rain as soon as you wash your car, and that when queuing, the other line will always move faster.

Many people will naturally interpret this law as a pessimistic view of life. In fact, they couldn’t be further from the truth. Losers can take advantage of a good knowledge of Murphy's Law to help better prepare for the unexpected problems and challenges that life throws our way.

Don't worry about Murphy's Law, you know it's going to happen anyway, so just get on with it and get it over with!
