FRENCH UNIVERSITY OF TOURISM SUMMER SCHOOL

GROUNDING IN EXCELLENCE

The French University of Tourism is an association of thirteen prestigious institutes and universities. It was founded in 2010 with the objective of providing an exciting educational and cultural experience, sharing excellence in training programs and transferring research knowledge in tourism.

The French University of Tourism offers the joint degree¹ of "Tourism Destination Management, Learning from France". This is a high-level educational course that draws upon the theories, research, and professional knowledge of a diverse team of professors and practitioners renowned in their respective fields.

TRAVEL AND LEARN

The summer school program is a unique opportunity for students to travel in France and study tourism management at French universities. It has been designed to provide a «Grand Tour» of France, combining the courses with the discovery of famous French sights, monuments, historic cities, art and cultural events. Students are awarded a diploma upon successful completion of the course.

AN OVERVIEW OF THE FRENCH TOURISM INDUSTRY

France is the world's top tourist destination and with 87 million tourists, the country is a world leader in both business and cultural tourism. As a result, France's tourism professionals have unique insight into the industry.

"The French tourism industry is a national treasure". Laurent Fabius, French Foreign Minister

France is the world's number one tourist destination, making it an unequalled location for the study of tourism.

900 000 jobs
5.8m overnight stays
7.42% of GDP
240 000 companies

Reasons to enroll in the French University of Tourism Summer School

Enrich your career

Students enrolled in the "Tourism Management: Learning from France" program receive a joint-diploma co-signed by the participating institutions of the French University of Tourism.

Experience the best that France has to offer

France is the world's number one tourist destination offering a mix of diverse landscapes and a huge range of cultural resources. Through field trips, cultural visits and expert-led tours, the program gives students first-hand experience of the French tourism cultural product.

Be part of a unique academic setting

The summer school program is grounded in a solid academic setting backed by researchers, professionals and practitioners dedicated to disseminating France's tourism expertise and know-how. Students are offered a variety of approaches and perspectives on the tourism industry. Classes are thought-provoking and engaging and encourage interactive participation from students.

Gain theoretical and practical skills

The summer school has been designed to ensure that theoretical knowledge goes hand in hand with a practical understanding of the major issues in the tourism industry. This is achieved through the different classes and various field trips that form an integral part of the program. Courses are taught both by leading researchers and practitioners of major French tourism firms. Students will learn by interacting with seasoned professionals who are eager to share their experience.

Develop your professional network and expand your cultural horizons

The degree in Tourism Destination Management enables students to widen their network by meeting important stakeholders in the French tourism industry – professors, practitioners and policymakers alike. Likewise, the summer school offers a useful network for the future career of young professionals.

Share an incredible experience with fellow students and experts from around the world

The summer school brings together students from different countries for a multicultural and unforgettable experience.

SUMMER SCHOOL PROGRAM

TRAVEL

As a tourist destination, France has everything to offer from sandy beaches, to snow-capped mountains and vast expanses of countryside. It is a country steeped in culture with its iconic landmarks, castles, world-class art and history, not to mention the gastronomical tradition that attracts food enthusiasts from across the world.

Courses at the French University of Tourism take place over a four-week period, during which students will visit some of France's most stunning locations in four of its most famous regions: the Riviera, Toulouse, Angers, and finally Paris.

LEARN

By bringing together state of the art training and research institutions in the field of tourism, the course gives students exposure to the best that France has to offer in terms of tourism. The classes, setting and network of experienced professionals makes this a leading program in tourism management.

The program focuses on the following themes:

E-TOURISM
 GASTRONOMY AND FOOD TOURISM
 TOURISM AND ENVIRONMENT
 COASTAL, MOUNTAIN AND RURAL TOURISM
 HERITAGE TOURISM
 URBAN AND METROPOLITAN TOURISM

EXPERIENCE

The program enables participants not only to fully immerse themselves in French life, but to do so within a multi-cultural framework. This unique mixture is made possible by the different nationalities of the students attending the one-month course. The various organized trips and activities will be the opportunity to fully experience student life in France in the cities of Nice, Toulouse, Angers and Paris.
