

INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS ON EDUCATIONAL INNOVATION IN HIGHER EDUCATION.

10 Years of innovation promoting the modular structure and active methodologies in the Faculties of Education of the UPV/EHU.

Presential and online.

Faculty of Education of Bilbao. Leioa. April 6,7 and 8, 2022

Deadline for submission of works. February 28th

In the context of the tenth anniversary, in which the Faculties of Education of the UPV/EHU launched the new university degrees in Early Childhood Education, Primary Education, Pedagogy and Social Education, we wish to highlight a unique and pioneering model of teaching innovation, based on the modular structure of its three degrees and on the development of the IKD i<sup>3</sup> model of the University of the Basque Country /Euskal Herriko Unibertsitatea (UPV/EHU). A model of its own, cooperative, multilingual and inclusive that emphasizes that students are the owners of their learning and are trained in a comprehensive, flexible and adapted to the needs of society. In this context, this International Congress on Educational Innovation in Higher Education aims to achieve the following objectives:

- To disseminate the different educational innovations promoted inside and outside the modules in the Faculties of Education of the UPV/EHU.
- To reflect in a critical way through national and international presentations, which will allow the need and opportunities to continue advancing in the path of innovation.

- To value the collaboration between the University and socio-educational agents through the practicum and the curriculum in social and educational innovation.
- Visibilize the work of students in educational innovation through the dissemination of different work (GRAL, participation in CBLs, Minor...).
- To generate a meeting space with colleagues from other UPV/EHU faculties and national and international universities who wish to present their papers at the Congress.

For this last objective, we have opened a deadline for the presentation of papers at the Congress until February 28th, inclusive. Different formats can be presented, such as:

- Presentations in person or online
- Posters
- Audiovisual works (Videos, podcasts, infographics,...)
- 2-hour workshops on some aspect or methodology related to educational innovation.

The three lines to present these works in a scientific format are:

1. theoretical papers or literature reviews on some topic related to educational innovation in Higher Education.
2. Practical experiences of educational innovation in the curriculum of Higher Education.
3. Experiences of innovation in the context of the curriculum, practicum, or Final Degree Projects, which link university education with the community or professional context, and/or the framework of the Sustainable Development Goals.

The following is the form to be filled in to send the papers, and the templates to make the proposals.
