

Raúl Montero

Dr. Montero Gilete's academic career is marked by frequent contributions to the study of the fantastic in British and American literature and the learning-teaching of the English language. These activities have been disseminated through the publication of articles, books and book chapters, didactic guides, and international congresses. His research line deals with the world of English and North American literature, focusing on the Inklings, on the one hand, and on the reinterpretation of the literature of the American West and its relationship with fantasy, Gothic literature and science fiction, on the other. Moreover, his certificate as Multilingual Administration and Office Communication Technician allows him to continue exploring new teaching methodologies to teach English in different academic disciplines such as business management, in which his previous experience working in the account department of the 'Coventry Evening Telegraph' in England or 'Simultrans' in Ireland, and his work as managing director of Funny and Easy SL and Portal Editions SL represent his active professional engagement with related fields in the productive sector.

raul.monterog@ehu.es

orcid: 0000-0002-2008-0963

British language and literature associate professor at University of the Basque Country (UPV/EHU)

Faculty of Arts (1.31)

Vitoria-Gasteiz, Spain